

Double, double toil and trouble,
Fire burn and caldron bubble.

Add a pair of wrinkly socks,

Then stir in a paw of a fox.

Then slam in a rotten hair of a rat and the howl of a wolf's breath,

Add a gross leg of a deer's death.

Chuck in an elephant's ear and a thrown up rotten egg,

The head of a horse and a smashed human's leg.

Stir in a lion's slimy brain and a small
dead frog,

Then the feather of a parrot and dirty log.

Double, double toil and trouble,

Fire burn and caldron bubble.

By Noah

